

Werner Volz

CFO Vitesco Technologies
(since 1st October 2019)

As a result of the organisational realignment of the Continental Powertrain division, Werner Volz will take over the management of Vitesco Technologies as Chief Financial Officer (CFO) from the 1st of October 2019 onwards.

He had previously taken over the responsibility as head of Powertrain Finance & Control in October 2018. He is an experienced financial expert and in the past 27 years has held managerial positions in various business areas. Previously, since 2008 he headed Finance and Controlling in Continental's Chassis & Safety division. He played a major part in the permanent restructuring of these areas during the financial crisis in 2008/2009 as well as in the lasting successful growth management of the business with advanced driver assistance systems.

After studying business administration at the University of Cooperative Education in Heidenheim, Werner Volz began his career at Carl Schäfer KG, Ulm. From 1987 to 1996, he worked at AEG in the fields of communications technology as well as systems and automation technology. His positions included CFO of AEG Automation Systems Corporation in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, U.S.A., and commercial director of AEG Anlagen- und Automatisierungstechnik GmbH in Frankfurt, Germany. In 1997, Mr. Volz joined Siemens, where he assumed various management positions in commercial areas before the takeover by Continental in 2007, latterly as commercial director of the Safety and Chassis & Motor Drives division. In 2008 he was appointed Head of Finance and Controlling in the Chassis & Safety division.
